

Overseas Association of College Admission Counselors Annual Summer Meeting

Chicago, Illinois
July 15-17, 1995

The 2nd Annual Summer Meeting of OACAC will be held in the Windy City! Convening with a reception on Saturday evening, July 15, and concluding with lunch on Monday, July 17, the OACAC meeting will be a time for renewing old friendships, catching up on some of the latest information for counseling international students and sharing ideas that work around the world.

Presentations are being planned on a variety of topics that include:

- Changing patterns of financial aid for U.S. students and foreign nationals. What are the implications of the changing political scene in the U.S. for financial aid in the coming years? What impact will they have on non-U.S. students?
- Portfolio assessment in the college admission process: just how does it work and how can international students use it to their advantage?
- Transitions from overseas school to U.S. college or university: ways counselors can help to address this crucial passage.
- Ideas that work... Bring some good ideas that have worked for you and share them with colleagues.
- The latest from College Board and ETS. What will recentering mean? How colleges and schools can work together for an effective transition.
- Organizing OACAC for more effective action: finding our niche in the NACAC organization.

Cost:

Registration $30.00 (OACAC members)
 $50.00 (non-members)
