

Advocacy Efforts in Other Countries

International ACAC recognizes how important it is to be internationally minded in its advocacy work. We take advantage of Advocacy Day to this effect in the US; however, we currently do not have as much access in other countries to legislators and other individuals who exert influence on education policy. The Advocacy and Outreach Committee has been developing efforts in the UK and we are constantly looking to develop other relationships that can help us be education advocates around the world.

For this reason, we ask anyone who has suggestions about who to contact or how to do so to send us an email at AdvocacyOutreach@internationalacac.org. Your knowledge of local policies, policy makers, and advocacy opportunities is important to our better serving students in the future.
